What can I do to contribute to realizing the aims and commitments of MemePeace?
First and foremost: search and reinforce constructive traditions in your environment.
On the long run, strategies of exclusion and building walls cannot be expected to lead to positive results. Plans and projects for creating peace positively need to be translated, diffused and proposed for discussion to major language communities involved in conflict areas.
Our administrators and politicians need to be contacted and made aware of the urgent necessity to search for strategies to create peace positively, and for the importance to foster and give sufficient space to ideodiversity especially in secondary education.
Experiences, questions and constructive comments can be shared in the Forum/Reply section: see now at the end of memepeace.org/reinforcing-existing-traditions/
